- Site Tour at PRA mural- FACC members toured the mural on the utility building near the Frisco Nordic Center on the day after completion. The artist completed a few touch ups at the request of staff on October 8, and FACC members were pleased with the mural and how it created a creative gateway into the Frisco Adventure Park.
- FACC members also looked at the new concrete pedestal for the Who's the Boss elk statue, which will be relocated to the Adventure Park in 2027 when CDOT takes out the roundabout. There was agreement that this will be a good spot for the elk as visitors and community members will now not just drive by the sculpture but will be able to walk by and stop as they recreate at the PRA.
- Member Updates and Discussion
  Community connection and engagement events- there was a lengthy discussion of how the FACC can work to preserve and introduce the community culture of Frisco and what the culture is and is not. This discussion ranged from community dinners to other opportunities for community members to connect. The group challenged itself to think about what the community is and is not; for example, there was a suggestion that the FACC direct staff to do a Dia de Los Muertos event and there was a discussion about how this aligned with the community and how to partner with a non-profit to put on an event that would be authentic. The group also revisited the idea of a May Day event and then expressed a desire to dig into community connection and engagement discussions more deeply. Staff will bring back a way to make this conversation more productive and meaningful for the FACC.
- Staff Updates
    - Tunnel mural update- FACC looked at work at the pedestrian tunnel interior to remove peeling paint and how the painted surface in some areas could be preserved. It was noted that the exterior painted mural surfaces are holding up well.

- Waste receptacle update- The designs have been refined and sent to the waste receptacle manufacturers. In addition, the designs will also be used for the new compost receptacles, and Town marketing staff will work to adjust the design to this new size.
- Instrument collection and music education update- Blair Miller heard from the Middle School Music teacher and was able to add a request for specific and needed musical instruments to the Frisco Repair Fair. The FACC directed staff to work on a school music and art needs grant program to support Frisco Elementary, Summit High School, Snowy Peaks, and Summit Middle School.
